Distance Body Talk sessions

GOING QUANTUM

Go quantum: the logical way to natural health and wellness!

Quantum physics research and modern scientific discoveries show convincingly that distant healing (also known as remote healing, distance healing or long-distance healing) is just as effective as face-to-face treatments in achieving holistic health and wellness for the mind and body. Quantum physicists have argued for the existence of the ZERO POINT FIELD, through which we are all connected, and this connection is independent of time and space. This important finding gives scientific credibility to distant healing. You can think of distant healing as wireless technology - it works in ways similar to cell phones and the Internet.

HOW SCIENCE MEASURES THE EFFECTS OF DISTANT HEALING

The effect of distant healing can be measured through the so called Polycontrast Interference Photography (PIP), a device developed by Dr Thornton Streeter DSc. CEO CBS. PIP is now used worldwide for validating various alternative therapies. It highlights areas of well-being and disease with clear patterns and colours. Clinical data from trials in which the PIP technique was used to measure the level of healing obtained during distant healing sessions showed remarkable measurable difference between the Before and After pictures. In one of those trials the patient was in India and the practitioner was in Sweden. PIP indicated that the patient responded instantly to the remote healing treatment, and areas highlighted as blocked/diseased before the treatment cleared immediately after the treatment. In another trial, distant BodyTalk sessions were sent from Colorado, USA, to subjects at the Center for Biofield Science in Pune, India. In this experiment (conducted by Thornton Streeter DSc., Dr. Ravi Pryag, Dr. Vaibhav Lunkad, MBBS, Don Ka'imi Pilipovich, DAc, LMT, and Shivali Dandekar), the biofield scans reported noticeable changes in the biofield of ALL experimental subjects while the BodyTalk distant healing was being performed.

Thousands of people nowadays choose to have distant BodyTalk sessions, either because the practitioner they like does not live in their area, or simply because it saves time.

I have clients from various provinces in South Africa and Internationally in Canada, Thailand and United Kingdom.

All distant clients have been reporting remarkable improvement in their physical and mental health and wellness, from their distance BodyTalk sessions.
